Bones, DID, and the Military

Hey everyone! If I wasn't fully convinced that Bones is faking DID before, I certainly am now. I've asked around for any mention from Bones about their DID, or, "multiple personalities" in general, and I was sent some screenshots from when they first "learned" they had DID.

Before we get into anything, I'm referring to "psychopathy" AS psychopathy for the pure reason of, that's how I've known it while I've been studying it for the past couple of years. I genuinely don't know if there's an alternate "medical" term for it. I understand that it is not a diagnosis on the DSM.

It started off because Bones implied that they'd known about their DID for years to me, saying they "masked" to hide it. This is false. Here are the screenshots I find most interesting.

There's a lot to unpack here. The first screenshot holds nothing significant, so let's go to the second one.

"He said that my psychopathy is so bad that it developed into BPD and DID." .... Psychopathy cannot develop into another disorder. It's a chronic genetic disorder that affects the structure of your brain and gives you a total lack of empathy. It can give you a loose sense of reality, but it does not develop into another disorder.

Bones later says that they developed DID through trauma, from the time they were a child soldier. There's a few things wrong with this. Firstly, it's very hard for a Psychopath to become traumatized. It's possible, but incredibly rare. Like I said, the structure of their brains are different than someone who isn't a psychopath. They can't process fear, stress, and panic like someone who is not a psychopath.

Secondly, there is NO POSSIBLE WAY Bones fought in a war.

I've done my research, and even got help from a friend who lives in Malaysia. Here is a list of wars that Malaysia has taken part in. The war that lines up with them being a child, is this.

Here's a little fun fact. Bones was born in 1998. They were 8 years old in 2006. Here's another fun fact: The Malaysian armed forces only recruits 18+ year olds, and anyone younger (say, 16-17) have to have their parents agree to send them off to war. Here's some information I found about the Malaysian armed forces.

Now, hypothetically, let's say that Gerard, Bones' father, gave consent for Bones to be in the military. WHY would they accept a literal 8 year old? And said above, people 16+ were chosen and recruited. NOT EIGHT YEAR OLDS. NOT NINE YEAR OLDS.

This contradicts the general age where people develop DID, as well. They weren't in a war when they were 8-9, and the war ended in 2013, when they were 15. We know they were in school during this time from the many posts and friends they used to talk about from the rebornica blog in 2013. We also know that they weren't in any war or military AFTER this time as well due to the sheer fact of how active they were on tumblr.

As a side note, there was a brain scan experiment for DID. But it was nothing more than an experiment, and is not used in common medical practice. A ct scan cannot detect mental disorders 100%.

Later, Bones decides that the reason they were abusive in the past is because of DID.

Bones still didn't quite understand DID at this point. I don't think they ever have. Back in the nifaux days, they said she was "faking her multiple personality thing" and treated their DID-based oc (the personification of it, and someone I talked to believed they used to refer to the oc as multiple personality disorder) as being as simple as pulling off your head and replacing it with another.

Bones had to be literally "convinced" that DID didn't make them evil. They insisted that the reason they're abusive is because they had DID.

Bones is very insistent on not sharing their body with their alters. I'm sure learning at first can be very confusing, but they've kept this mindset even now. I don't understand why they're so insistent on people with DID being evil. Friends I've met and grown close to with DID are some of the coolest people I know. That is also, most likely another lie to get the validation they want.

Moving on, Here's the bunch of screenshots I started posting the other day.

Bones literally does NOT understand DID at all just from these screenshots alone. They still refer to alters as separate personalities, not as their own people.

I've gone over some of these screenshots so I won't waste much time on them, but, Alters can form at anytime. It doesn't have to be tied to Trauma. They can form over the smallest things. There are also dormant alters, and they never really seem to refer to other alters as fronting. They're not nice to their alters, and they bring back the "this is my body" point.

THEY DON'T EVEN KNOW WHAT PERSECUTORS ARE. Persecutors don't protect the body, they harm the body and terrorize other alters. Some can even be an introject of a person's abuser.

I don't know what doctor they're going to, if they're even going to one. They've thrown their doctor around before like a weapon, and he doesn't seem to be good at his job if they keep throwing these ideas and labels in Bones' direction, because they clearly take things too far.

I fully believe Bones just googles a few things and takes the first result, and the CT scan comment proves that.

I believe Bones tries to find excuses for their actions. They believe that something needs to be the reason for why they act the way they do.
